Silicon Valley enjoys gorgeous weather, unlimited activities and plenty of jobs for all. Unfortunately it's also expensive, congested, and a bit different than it used to be. If you could find another place to live that was affordable, had comparable weather, offered good health care and transportation, would you consider relocating? This workshop is led by Brian Schwatka and will introduce you to other areas that are comparable to Silicon Valley. In addition, we will cover topics like creative buying/selling/renting of real estate, the costs of staying vs. going, the pros and cons of community living, and planning your perfect future. A panel of experts from the top retirement communities in the area will answer all of your tough questions without the sales pitch.
